

IMAGINASIA

CONTEMPORARY ARTWORK

A first glimpse for the West into the hidden world of contemporary Chinese art.

A first chance to experience an exciting new aesthetic that combines an artistic tradition stretching back thousands of years with the technological innovations of today.

In the days of the Ming emperors, Chinese innovations in porcelain created a sensation in the West and today these stunning new creations are making an equally sensational impact in unlocking the mysteries of today's enigmatic East. With a spiritual significance and depth that the West rarely matches.

QIAO QIAN RANGE

Qiao was born in 1968 in Xuzhou in the northern part of Jiangsu Province and over the years has worked in a range of different materials. He is much admired in the Far East as both a sculptor and an academic and has had many papers published on sculpture and art in general, as well as having staged a number of exhibitions since first showing to the public in Beijing in 1999.

Qiao Qian draws on a number of different facets of his life in creating his figures. On the one hand, his was a childhood spent in relative poverty in the countryside, where he recalls "serene villages, shady rivers and old trees standing in the moonlight". On the other hand, these were times also dominated by the upheaval of the Cultural Revolution in China.
